EMPEROR ISSUES EDICT

She Says That Foreigners Must Be Protected.

ATTACK ON TIEN-TSIN REPULSED.

Allies Almost Overwhelmed Last Wednesday by Chinese Hordes. Story of the Heroic Defense-Japan's Big Army.

London, July 11.—Dispatches from the far east continue optimistic, and the disposition is to believe these reports, though from Chinese sources, but no real confidence is possible until the legations, if still in existence, are permitted to communicate with their governments.

Alleged official reports received in Shanghai Monday night say that the emperor on June 30 resumed the reins of government and appointed Yung Lu prime minister. It is said that she sent a dispatch to Nankin by courier at the rate of 100 miles a day thanking the viceroys of the Yangtze-Kiang provinces for their loyalty and urging that they protect foreigners at any cost.

The report reaches Tien-tsin from Chinese sources that the foreigners at the prince's palace, opposite and commanding the British legation, and that the native Christians have been installed there.

Officials of the Chinese legation declare that the present trouble is entirely the work of Prince Tuan and that the government, the dowager empress and the Chinese generally are against the Boxers. The officials add that they have reason to think that the situation at Peking is improving and that Prince Ching will be able to protect the foreigners. They scout the stories of the massacre of the legations and the poisoning of the emperor and the dowager empress, but express the opinion that Prince Ching and the loyal viceroys could best be assisted by the prompt dispatch of international reinforcements and the promise of help in the formation of a strong government.

Message from the Emperor.

The Shanghai correspondent of The Daily Mail cables: "A message has arrived from Emperor Kwang Hsu, dated July 2, by courier from Peking to the viceroys of Nankin who forwarded it. It is addressed to the Russian, English and Japanese governments. It declares recent occurrences and avers that the foreign governments are mistaken in supposing the Chinese government is protecting the Boxers against the Christians. The emperor implores their aid in suppressing the rebellion and upholding the existing government. In a separate dispatch to the Japanese government Kwang Hsu expressed deep regret for the murder of the legation chancellor.

"These dispatches are taken to indicate that the emperor is in possession and ignorance of the situation of recent events."

The Chinese version of the origin of the Peking outbreak, as published in Shanghai, is that Baron von Kettler was hated by the populace, who, taking advantage of the disturbed condition of affairs, shot him out of revenge, thereby causing a conflict between the Chinese troops and the Germans, the latter of whom destroyed the tung-shi-yamen. The infuriated soldiers under Prince Tuan then gained complete control over the dowager empress.

Prince Tuan's Edicts.
 According to the Shanghai correspondent of The Express Prince Tuan in a recent edict boldly signs himself emperor. He warmly commends "his faithful Boxers" and declares anyone who opposes their epidemic and fanaticism. In the same edict Prince Tuan appoints Prince Tuan, the "Iron capped," Prince Tsai-shan, his imperial chamberlain, and Kang-Yi to command the three wings of the Boxer army.

At Shanghai it seems to be believed that the date of the dispatch of July 3, asserting that two legations were still standing, was an error. The couriers must have left Peking at least five days earlier, making the real date June 28, while the alleged massacres are said to have occurred on June 30. Until this point can be cleared up anxiety will be felt as to the fate of theBoxers.

A dispatch from Shanghai says: "An edict of the empress dowager, promulgated on June 30, has just been published in Shanghai. Her majesty expresses sorrow for the death of Baron von Kettler, the German minister, who, she says, went to the tung-shi-yamen on the day of his death against her wishes.

"Her majesty expresses regret that the capture of the Taku forts should have complicated matters, but orders that the Boxers be expressed and the foreign legations in Peking protected. The whole tone of the edict is to hold the foreigners blameable for the gravity of the crisis.

"Two hundred and fifty white refugees from Tien-tsin arrived in Shanghai July 10."

Attack on Tien-Tsin.

A dispatch dated Tien-tsin, July 5, says: "Yesterday large forces of Chinese troops attacked the settlement from two directions—one from the western arsenal and the other upon the railway station on the opposite bank of the river. The Chinese evidently now have a more capable commander. The attack from the arsenal was directed upon what is probably the weakest point of defense, which has hitherto not been pressed. The Chinese advanced on this side over an open plain without cover, and the attack was easily repulsed by the British guns. The enemy made a simultaneous attack upon the station with a large infantry force covered by the fire of 11 guns. The British replied with two of the cruiser Terrible's 12 pounders and five smaller guns, while the combined forces of British, French, Russian and Japanese infantry moved out to deal with the Chinese infantry attacks.

"The Chinese artillery practice was excellent, and the allied troops suffered severely from a well directed shell fire. The Japanese, whose behavior was splendid, executed a well conceived movement and succeeded in turning the Chinese left and driving the enemy from their strong position among the irrigation trenches. The Chinese retired to the native city, and the allied infantry then withdrew and the affair became an artillery duel, lasting until darkness, with little damage to either side.

"A British regiment of Chinamen which was engaged proved very steady under fire.

"The casualties of the allies have not yet been ascertained, and it is impossible to estimate the enemy's loss.

"A welcome addition to the defense was received yesterday in the shape of two more of the Terrible's 'twelves.' Painted on their carriages is the inscription, 'Ladysmith to Tien-tsin—immediate.' The Algerine today sent two 4 inch guns, which will do much toward equalizing the artillery strength of the allies with that of the enemy.

"Most of the women and children left today, and the remainder will follow as opportunity offers. Two thousand Japanese troops landed at Taku today and 13,000 more are expected within a few days."

General MacArthur Reports Movements of Troops.

Washington, July 11.—In reply to instructions of the secretary of war of July 7 General MacArthur cables the adjutant general the following, under date of July 9, 10.40 p. m.

"Daggett's regiment (Fourteenth United States Infantry) and Kelly's battery (Fifth artillery) will go on the 13th for Taku on transports, Indiana, Flintshire and Wyndell. Taylor in Samar not available. For other infantry regiment for Chinese service recommend first one leaving States. Manila nicely cared for until arrival new troops without drawing on Anderson, Bullard or Sargent, which is now impracticable. In addition to one month's subsistence supplies with troops, send with Daggett to establish depot three months' subsistence for 5,000 men. Regiments have 500 rounds ammunition per man.

"Crozier carries 1,000,000 reserve and such miscellaneous ordnance supplies as can be spared from here. With view to medical supply depot stores three months for 5,000 men go with Daggett. There will be at least medical officers in China from Philippines. Send three months' forage 350 animals and partial supply winter clothing for Ninth infantry. Shall keep Indiana and Flintshire in China waters for local service therein. Order all large transports home to expedite transfer troops here. Forgoing arrangements easily changed if department's wishes call for it.

The public of this city are the first official admission of the purpose of the administration to withdraw additional troops from the Philippines for the purpose of aiding in the suppression of the rebellious conditions in China.

Outside of the sailors and marines of Admiral Kempff's fleet, the only United States forces now in China are the 1,350 Philippine Scouts of the Ninth infantry, which, according to press dispatches, arrived at Taku from Manila last Saturday. The additional troops ordered to the scene from Manila, according to General MacArthur's dispatch, will add a little over 1,000 to that force. The reinforcements consist of two battalions of four companies each of the Fourteenth infantry, aggregating about 1,000 men, and Captain Kelly's battery of the Fifth artillery, numbering 138 men, with six guns. The Third battalion of the Fourteenth infantry is now in the United States, posted at Fort Brady and Fort Wayne.

All Americans at Tien-tsin Safe.

New York, July 11.—The international committee of the Young Men's Christian association has received an unsigned cable dispatch from Shanghai announcing that the entire American colony in Tien-tsin is safe. The message is dated July 9 and is supposed to have been sent by Robert E. Lewis, the committee's secretary at Shanghai. No explanation was offered for the continued silence of Robert E. Gailey, the committee's secretary at Tien-tsin. The information received yesterday is supplemental to a dispatch received from Mr. Lewis a few days ago, in which he said that he knew nothing of Mr. Gailey's whereabouts.

President to Return to Capital.

Washington, July 11.—President McKinley, according to advisers received here, has indicated his intention to return to Washington on Saturday, and the executive mansion, which has been undergoing its usual summer repairs, is being put in order for his reception. Were it not for previous arrangements, the president would probably accept the proffered home of a second presidency in his own home he would not delay for the notification of his nomination at Philadelphia, but would hasten to the capital, where his presence is urgently needed.

Fight With Cattle Thieves.

Glencoe, O. T., July 11.—One United States marshal was instantly killed and three desperadoes fatally wounded and captured in a fight on the Arkansas river 40 miles east of here. A messenger brought the news here yesterday. In that locality there are a great many bands of cattle thieves, who have terrorized residents for some time. Only a few days ago a farmer was killed while trying to protect his property. The three desperadoes who were captured last night had stolen a whole herd of cattle from the reservation and were taking them to a railroad station when the three marshals overtook them and the fight began.

Accident to Jay Cooke.

Philadelphia, July 11.—Jay Cooke, the widely known financier, who was thrown from his carriage while driving near his home in Germantown, has suffered very little discomfort from the accident. His injuries were confined to slight abrasions of the face and knee, and he is up and about as usual. He spent several hours in the city yesterday and late in the afternoon returned to his home. Mr. Cooke's grandson, who was riding with him when the carriage overturned, suffered a dislocation of one shoulder, but his condition is not serious.

FIGHTING IN TRANSVAAL

The Boer War Seems to Be Picking Up.

BETHLEHEM HAS BEEN CAPTURED

Lord Roberts Reports Many Engagements, and the British War Office Issues a New List of Casualties. Text of Dispatch.

London, July 11.—Lord Roberts has sent the following dispatch to the war office, dated Pretoria, July 10: "Clements' and Paget's forces entered Bethlehem July 7. The former, on nearing the town, sent in a flag of truce, demanding its surrender, which was refused by De Wet, when Paget, making a wide turning movement, succeeded in getting hold of the enemy's most important position, covering the town. This was carried before dark by the Munster fusiliers and Yorkshire Light infantry. The following morning the attack was continued, and by noon the town was in our possession and the enemy in full retreat.

"Our casualties were four officers and 32 men of the Munsters wounded and one missing; Captains MacPherson and Wenkes and Lieutenant Conway severely and Lieutenant Boyd-Rochford, Scottish rifles, slightly wounded; seven men of the Yorkshires wounded and one killed and two wounded of the Imperial yeomanry.

"Paget reports that but for the accurate practice of the Thirty-eighth Royal artillery and the Fourth City Imperial batteries the casualties would have been many more.

Baden-Powell at Rustenburg.

"Baden-Powell reached Rustenburg during the evening of July 8 without opposition. He found all quiet there and public confidence entirely satisfactory, thanks to the prompt and bold grasp of the situation taken by Major Hanbury-Tracy.

"The district west of this is somewhat unsettled owing to the small force which attacked Rustenburg being still in that neighborhood. Measures are being taken to meet this.

"Further information regarding the capture of Bethlehem has now been received from Clements. He states that the country there is broken and difficult. Consequently his and Paget's cavalry were unable to make any wide turning movement. Clements attacked one position while Paget attacked another. The position assailed by Clements was gallantly captured by the Royal Irish, who captured a gun of the Seventy-seventh battery lost at Stormberg. The list of casualties has not yet been received, but Clements states they are few, considering the strength of the positions assaulted.

"Hunter's cavalry under Broadwood reached Bethlehem July 8. Hunter, with his main force, was within nine miles of the town when Clements dispatched his report."

The war office has issued another casualty list from South Africa, showing that during the week ended July 7 there were killed, wounded or captured 15 officers and 180 men; accidental deaths, 2 men; died of disease, 4 officers and 191 men; invalided home, 72 officers and 1,306 men. The total casualties as a result of the war are 48,188 officers and men.

Government Crop Report.

Washington, July 11.—Preliminary reports to the satisfaction of the department of agriculture on the average of corn planted indicate an increase of about 1,200,000 acres, or 1.5 per cent over the average harvested last year. Of the 22 states having 1,000,000 acres or upward in corn in 1899 all but Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas, Tennessee and Kansas show an increased average, and the total decrease in the five states named is less than 600,000 acres. The condition of winter wheat shows a further decline during June, being 80.8 on July 1, as compared with 82.7 on June 1, 1905, on July 1, 1899, 85.7 at the corresponding date in 1898 and a ten year average of 79.8. The average condition of spring wheat is 53.2, as compared with 57.3 one month ago, 61.7 on July 1, 1900, 65 at the corresponding date in 1898 and a ten year average of 59.5.

Fishing Schooner Sunk.

Rockland, Me., July 11.—The schooner Fred Gover of Gloucester has put in at this port. Three of the 17 men who made up the crew of the Story were drowned—Charles Sears, steward, of Wood Harbor, N. S.; Angus Sears, nephew of the former, and John J. Wagner of West Berlin, N. S. The Mary Story was owned by George and Copps Sayward of Gloucester and was valued at $2,000.

It will be built of marble, will cost in the neighborhood of $150,000, and after the exposition is over the Buffalo Historical society will occupy it.

Fatal Accident in Ithaca.

Ithaca, N. Y., July 11.—Paul Collins, the son of Michael Collins, a mechanic of this city, was crushed beneath a wheel of a wagon heavily loaded with stone and almost instantly killed. ARTHUR ROBERTS.

The Domestic Tribulations of "The Funniest Man in England."

Arriving at the Gaiety one night late from the races Arthur Roberts found on his arrival at the theater the place seething with indignation. "Fetch me a black silk wrapper," he said while dressing. The wrapper being brought, he proceeded to force it into a sling, and limping on to the stage, faced the house. All eyes were fixed on the eling and a cry of "Hush—hush!" went round the house as the pale—purposely so—little man came down to the footlights.

"Ladies and gentlemen, I claim your indulgence; an accident in a cab. Forgive me." Such cheers, such sympathy, that the wicket fellow for once lost his head, and came on in the next act minus his scarf and limp! Stranger still, no one noticed it. Roberts' accomplishments are just what might be expected from so peculiar a character. If they were not so original, it is probable he would not be in receipt of an income which is anything from $5,000 to $7,000 per annum.

Some of the funniest tricks pantomime wigs over made were evolved from his quaint fancy, and when no fun is to be got out of wigs he will direct his attention to properties. His powers of pantomiming are remarkable. Without any accessories he will in dumb show so accurately play a game of billiards that the absence of the table is scarcely noticed. In short, Mr. Roberts is a merry, good hearted fellow, as ready for a joke as he is to help others in distress. Ask him to appear at a benefit and he will reply:

"Certainly. Anything you like. If your bill gets too full, I will sell programmes or take checks."

His one great sorrow, he tells me, is due to his inability to persuade his family that he is a funny fellow. If he cracks a joke to his daughter, she will say, "That's not bad for you, papa!" If he tries his humor on his son, the youngster will retort, "Isn't it lucky for us, dad, that the public is so easily gulled?" While Mrs. Roberts, worst of all, disdains all notice of his humor beyond saying, "Do get on with your dinner, dear!"—London Answers.

HIS FIRST POEM.

Longfellow's Composition on the Fate of Mr. Finney's Turnip.

When our great poet Longfellow was 9 years old, his master wanted him to write a composition. Little Henry, like all children, shrank from the undertaking. His master said:

"You can write words, can you not?"

"Yes," was the reply.

"Then you can put words together?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then," said the master, "you may take your slate and go out behind the school-house and there you can find something to write about, and then you can tell what it is, what it is for, and what it is to be done with it, and that will be a composition."

Henry took his slate and went out. He went behind Mr. Finney's barn, which chanced to be nearby, and, seeing a fine turnip growing up, he thought he knew what that was, what it was for and what would be done with it.

A half hour had been allotted to Henry for his first undertaking in writing composition. In a half hour he carried in his work all accomplished, and the master is said to have been affected almost to tears when he saw what little Henry had done in that short time.

MR. FINNEY'S TURNIP.

Mr. Finney had a turnip.

And it grew, and it grew.

And it grew behind the barn.

And the turnip did no harm.

And it grew, and it grew.

And it could grow no taller.

And put it in the cellar.

There it lay, there it lay.

Till it began to rot.

When his daughter Susie washed it,

And she put it in the pot.

Then she boiled it and boiled it

As long as she was able.

Then his daughter Lizzie took it,

And she put it on the table.

Mr. Finney and his wife

Both sat down to sup.

And they ate, and they ate

Till they ate the turnip up.

Whaling at Amagansett.

Away out on the eastern end of Long Island, almost as much at sea as though it were an island by itself, is the little fishing village of Amagansett. It lies directly on the ocean, and has neither harbor nor wharves nor ships, yet it is known far up and down the coast as a whaling town, for it is at this point, strange to say, that the whales come nearest to the land. They are sighted first within a few miles of Amagansett.

The weather seasoned surfmen, who fish through the breakers for food fish, will give you a dozen reasons why this is so and why their little navy is unique among the fishing fleets of the north Atlantic coast. But they are mostly guesses, and we only know that the whales have favored Amagansett thus for many years. During all the summer and fall the hardy fishermen who live in the gray cottages among the dunes get their nets for blue and weak fish, but from the end of winter to early summer they become fishermen of more heroic cast, and chase and take and land the biggest "fish" that swims—the whale. Nearly every season whales are sighted by the life savers who patrol the beach, or by the lookout at the life saving station, and when one or more of them are taken, the occasion is one to be marked with a white stone in the history of the sleepy little village.—Harper's Weekly.

Smoothing Irons.

Irons may be made to last for years, and they may be treated in such fashion as to wear out in a few months. The first great secret in their preservation is to keep them from rusting. To this end, when not in use, they should be stored away in a clean, dry place. If, in spite of this care, or, more likely, because of some neglect, they should still become rusty, rub them thoroughly with lard and beeswax and then with sandpaper.

THE B. & A. BILL.

It Passes The Massachusetts House, 124 To 50.

Intimated That Money Was Being Offered For Votes.

Mr. Carley Objects To Two Members Of The Railroad Committee.

Boston, July 11.—The house this afternoon passed, to be endorsed, the Boston and Albany railroad bill, after killing the referendum and all other amendments hostile to the text of the bill. The vote stood 124 to 50. In the course of the debate, Mr. Dean of Wakefield spoke of members being offered $300 for their votes, but after ward he said that he had made this statement in the heat of debate, and that it was only a rumor in the state house. Representative Carley raised the point that two members of the railroad committee, Dewey of Fall River and Senator Tolman, had no right to sit in judgment on the bill because they were stockholders in the railroad. Senator Tolman said later that he had disposed of his stock and Mr. Dewey explained that he had owned one stock, but had sold it.

The Newburyport, (Mass.) Morning Herald of Wednesday, the 11th, had the following item:

Engineer Boardman of the tug Preston at Beverly, while getting aboard yesterday afternoon, fell 30 feet, striking on his head. He was taken to the "feverly hospital." His injuries are thought to be serious.

The young man referred to is James Boardman of Kittery, and the younger son of Mr. and Mrs. James Boardman of Pleasant street. The first they learned of the accident was when their attention was called to the item by the Kittery correspondent of the Portsmouth Herald, who was quite positive the unfortunate engineer was the Kittery boy. His sister, Miss Annie Boardman, left this morning for Beverly to visit her brother. His many friends in this vicinity sincerely hope that the injuries may not be as severe as thought to be. The Preston is a new tug and Mr. Boardman is the first engineer.

EXCHANGE EDITORS.

HOW SOME READABLE NEWSPAPER STORIES TRAVEL.

Saved From Oblivion by the Man of Sore and Paste Pot—Lost Credits Sometimes Cause Trouble—Stories That Appear in the Same Papers Twice.

A story originating in Boston told of the finding by a fisherman of a malodorous gelatinous mass in the bay. He towed it to shore and tried to boil it. He thought it was some kind of glue.

The mass weighed 100 pounds, but it smelled so bad he threw most of it away. A portion weighing six pounds he kept and took to the village pharmacist. There he learned the stuff was ambergris, worth $3 an ounce.

The man who wrote the story figured out the fisherman had thrown away $300,000, and on this the tale was based and given value. Hundreds of papers copied the story, because of the immense amount the fisherman was supposed to have lost, says The Press and Printer.

Any one who took the trouble to figure the value of 100 pounds of ambergris at $3 a tray ounce would have seen the "fortune" thrown away footed up only $3,500. Some one did this finally, and the story ceases to travel.

Occasionally an exchange editor forgets what has originated with his own paper. Thus, a New York paper that is generally looked upon as the one nearest perfection in that city printed a good article not long ago that was copied in part by a weekly paper, and the paper that first had the story copied it and gave the weekly credit for it.

Old exchange editors look for certain stories periodically. Poker, snake and ghost stories never die. A good poker story will come out and make the rounds of the country at least once in three years. They are filed away until they have been almost forgot, and then brought out, brushed up and put before the public.

Most papers are conscientious in giving credit for matter taken from exchanges. Sometimes the credit is actually omitted, and then there are papers that deliberately omit matter. This leads to confusion, both of readers and exchange editors. Once in awhile a story is so good the usually conscientious exchange editor "appropriates" it just this once.

Occasionally a story is reprinted without credit by other papers and is finally credited to one of the publications that has "borrowed" it. When this happens, a well meaning exchange editor may be led into error in giving credit. Readers are confused when they find the same article printed in two papers in one city the same day, one of the papers presenting it as original and the other crediting it to an exchange.

Publication of an article does not always end interest in it in the office in which it originates. When The Post printed an article two years ago about the market for old bottles in Pittsburgh and the fortunes some persons were making out of it, it was not supposed anything more would be heard of it.

But people in the territory in which the paper circulates sent in scores of letters asking for further particulars. They wished to share in the rewards of the old bottle industry. The article was copied by newspapers throughout the country, and every week for a year thereafter The Post received inquiries from men who "knew where there were some old bottles." Some of these letters came from cities and towns 1,500 miles distant.

One of the best magazines in this country, one that continues to be sold for 35 cents a copy, regularly prints stories that have been "moss grown" for years. They are good things, short and sharp, in unadorned form, and are judged by the newspapers now as if they had not been printed originally in newspapers years ago. The magazine is given credit for them now.

The exchange editor doesn't expect to go through life without making mistakes, and he will admit printing old stories unthinkingly, but he does feel small when he finds he has clipped one story twice within a few days and it appears twice in the same issue of his paper.

One who reads a great many newspapers observes curious things about them. The exchange editor is the man who sees most of this, and he could tell some interesting tales. On the number of papers he can go through "depends his value to his employers."

There is an old newspaper office joke, one that never fails to raise a laugh when told among newspaper men, about a merchant who bought a newspaper property and set about conducting it on economical principles. After he had been in possession a few days he went to his managing editor with the suggestion that Jones be discharged.

"What for?" He's one of the best men on the staff," protested the managing editor.

"He's fooling you," said the newcomer. "I've been watching him for three days now, and I haven't seen him do a thing but read papers."

The exchange editor has to have a good memory, as well as good judgment. He must know what is fresh matter and what is likely to interest the great body of readers. But sometimes he forgets, and a good story will be printed in one paper more than once.

Sometimes very odd stories go all over the country, one paper after another printing them without the peculiarity ever being discovered. Stories have been known to travel for ten years.

Delicious For the Children.

Toasted marshmallows are delicious and make a pretty and odd sweet for a luncheon, or the children will welcome them as dinner dessert. When held over the coals on the roasting fork, they puff up to twice their former size and turn a lovely brown color. Served as soon as they are, they will be found to keep their heat for so long that there is more danger of burning one's mouth than that the dainty morsel will become cold and lifeless. This is preferable to plunging them in the chafing dish, as is sometimes done, and incidentally much better for that reason. To use the blazer of the chafing dish for dry cooking—that is, where no lubricant is used—is to destroy quickly its finish.

Church Feud Ended.

St. Patrick's church, Galway, Ireland, a magnificent structure, has not been opened for 35 years, because a plot of ground in front of the building was owned by a man who had a bitter dislike to the form of worship carried on within, and he built a high wall directly in front of the church, preventing access. The man, however, recently died, and the bishop having bought the ground, the church will soon be opened, for the first time since 1855.

MY LADY'S LOVE.

What need have I for stars or moon?
My lady's love doth grant me noon.
No night is here, no clouded night,
For both no stars, so brightly by,
Shine brightly or no,
Love dotheth woe.
My smallest fault he sees.
If cold the wind,
Call I to mind
When I can warm me of a kiss?
What lack have I of joy or bliss
When I can warm me of a kiss?
The longest way doth count a mile,
So sweet the dreams which me beguile.
Hath thwarted care,
My heart is in the spring always,
For dear delight
Doth give the night
The sweetest essence of the daye

THE FARMER FISHERMAN.

Some of the interesting features of Mackinac Island in Old New England.

Catching mackerel was the poetry of fishing. Ordinarily there was only danger enough to give zest to its prosecution, while the rivalry between vessels and even between different individuals of a crew had all the elements of sport. Each cove had its clipper that could outstrip others, at least in the opinion of its local champions, and each of the larger ports usually had several claimants to the honor of being the swiftest of the fleet. The fame of the more noted of these spread from end to end of the coast. The names of swift fishing schooners became household words among the seafarers, and at many a fireside and grocery from Eastport to New London discussions of their respective merits divided attention with tales of big catches of fish.

Evidently there was pride in the vessels and a reliance upon the industry, and though the returns sometimes failed to meet expectations—for the sea harvest is an uncertain one at best—reasonable prosperity prevailed, and there were happy and contented homes along the shores of the northeastern states, where in many cases fishermen spent their winters with their families, and some even deferred going to sea in spring until after "the planting was in." Then these farmer-fishermen devoted the remainder of the season to the sea, leaving the "gardening at home" to be attended to by the "women folks" or by boys too young to pull an oar or haul a line.—Joseph William Collins in Harper's Magazine.

Wrestling With English.

English speaking people are wont to think that other languages are much more difficult to pronounce than their own. Particularly is this true with regard to the vowel sounds of the languages, and, perhaps, more so with regard to the German vowels than to others.

This is not the only truth, however, and others find as much difficulty in pronouncing correctly the 23 different vowel sounds in the English language. This was somewhat ludicrously illustrated in the German department of the university recently.

Fraulein Schoen, instructor in German at the university, had not very long ago the name of Harry Hare, a well known young man on the east side, on the class roll. The fraulein was accustomed in calling the roll to address all the gentlemen in the class as Herr So-and-so.

One morning Mr. Hare was absent from recitation, and when the fraulein came to his name she called out:

"Herr Harry Hare!"

No one responded.

"Herr Harry Hare!" again called Fraulein Schoen, while the class, noting the alliteration, began to smile.

"Is Herr Harry Hare here?" queried the teacher, and this time the class roared.

Any one who doesn't think it was funny should try to read this tale out loud, and then imagine that he wasn't to the manner born.—Minneapolis Tribune.

As a Frenchman Sees Us.

One moment you are tumbled through streets full of rats and holes, the next moment you are ushered into the sedulous of a luxuriously appointed hotel as is to be found in the wide world. In the morning you spend half an hour in a torture chamber, shot along on an endless chain and filled with tumbling human beings. In the evening you dine off gold plate and drink out of crystal vessels. As you walk up the stairs you are accosted by shivering, ragged, hollow cheeked mortal, who claims that he has no place to sleep and has had nothing to eat. In another moment you are in a palace, and from scores of boxes women lean forth, with the price of thousands of good dinners on their arms, shoulders and in their hair.

At several of the public balls, one of which I attended for an hour or two, women appeared in costumes and behaved in a manner that made my youthful memories of the Mabelle seem somber and satirical. So far as my own experience goes, it has seemed to me that much of the immorality here among the upper classes is rather mental than physical. The intercourse between men and women is very free, or so it appeared to me, but the worst feature of it is the stories and slanders that they themselves circulate about one another. A certain unconscious hypocrisy is prevalent among the people of all classes.—"America and Americans From a French Point of View."

Willing to Camp Out on Papa.

"So my little girl wants to get married and go away and leave her old papa, does she?" said the fond father as he stroked his child's sunny hair.

"Yes, papa, she does," replied the arch maiden, "but Fred says it would be quite too cruel."

"Oh, Fred said that, did he?"

"Yes, papa, and says that rather than take me away from you he'll be willing to come right here and live with us. Ain't it nobble of him?"

"Very."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

STRONG TEST.

This is Portsmouth's Best Will Stand Investigation.

If you doubt the following to investigate, you haven't the other state in the Union. It's not a long story published in mouth newspapers about a resident in Portsmouth, N. H., about a resident in Portsmouth, N. H., given in his own words. No proof can be had.

Mr. Charles Kennedy, of 25 street, says:—"A few years ago I laid up with rheumatism for ever months so that I could not get out of the house. I never regained my strength and my kidneys are apt to come sluggish. During the winter was taken with a very lame back and the constant ache made me miserable. I was so sore over my kidneys that I could hardly pick up anything from the floor, and twinges caught me in the back that were excruciating. I went to Dr. Phillips' pharmacy on Congress street for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills; after I commenced to use them I gradually grew better till the lameness and soreness entirely disappeared."

THURSDAY JULY 12, 1900.

After all the democratic ticket is symmetrical.

Surgeal experts agree that the Towne nomination for vice-president is the vermillion appendix of the Bryan boom.

On the Hon. Addie Stevenson's chest partisans don't expect him to get the full party vote in Princeton, N. J.

On the unprejudiced observer the Kansas City platform looks as though it might have been built by the Tammany of Horgan & Slattery.

No doubt the next edition of Bryan's "Complete Works" will contain the Kansas City platform and a new diagram of the author's dress parade smile.

Nevertheless, the spectacle of Croker and the Hon. Bourke Cockran marching side by side behind the Bryan band wagon will alone be worth the price of admission.

Up to the present hour the rush of gold democrats to crawl under the Bryan tent has not resulted in any serious accident. In fact, the rush appears to be in the other direction.

Bryan's great thirty acre farm is expected to yield enough produce this year to provide its owner with a new pair of cowhide boots and a bottle of freckle eradicator.

According to the Kansas City platform, the issue of "imperialism" is paramount. Mr. Blount, of Georgia, can tell what happens to a thing when it gets into that position.

Prince Tuan, the bloodthirsty leader of the anti-foreign uprising in China, is evidently following the Bryanite principle of doing things without asking the consent of other nations.

Tammany never really loved Bryan until it discovered that he was the champion long distance boss of the democratic party. But now a fellow feeling makes Croker wondrous kind.

Webster Davis has formally annexed himself to the democratic party, and Carl Behrman announces that he will oppose McKinley and Roosevelt to the bitter end. Thus the republican skies are brightening in every direction.

This unhappy country of ours is so poverty stricken that it could spend but little more than $7,000,000 for Fourth of July fireworks this year. This estimate, however, does not include Bryan's valuation of his own oratorical pyrotechnics.

When it came down to the question of free silver or no free silver the Nebraska boss never once asked the consent of the governed in Kansas City. He simply issued his orders and the collar-wearing delegates obeyed like little imitation freemen, which they were.

The "Fool-Killer" is quite an appropriate name for the little boat in which a Chicago man navigated the white rapids at Niagara, and, more important than anything else, made it get through in safety. Evidently the voyage was not as pleasant as anticipated, for, after getting to the other side, he announced to the crowd that he would be glad to have a change of company.

The Isthmian telegraph from Danbury, Conn., reports the death of a man.

THE CLOUDS ARE BLACKER. Chinese Situation Again Has A Very Ominous Aspect.

Li Hung Chang Called To Peking To Break News Of The Awful Tragedy To The Powers.

A Disaster To The Allied Troops In Tien Tsin Anticipated Unless They Are Speedily Reinforced.

LONDON, July 12, 2 00 A. M.—The Chinese situation has again assumed an ominous aspect. Eighteen days ago, Sir Robert Hart in Peking sent his last message, declaring that the situation was desperate, and since then no word has come from the Europeans in the Chinese capital. The Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Mail wires that Li Hung Chang has received an imperial decree summoning him immediately to Peking from Canton, presumably to break the news of the Peking tragedy to the European powers and, in his usual role of negotiator in all difficult matters, to act as mediator and seek to avert the vengeance of Europe. To act to the gruesomeness of things, all the dispatches from Tien Tsin confirm the report that the allied forces are powerless to act and also belie the optimistic Chinese reports. Indeed, unless reinforcements arrive at Tien Tsin speedily, another disaster there is anticipated. A despatch to the Daily Mail from Tien Tsin on the 5th says, "The situation is about as bad as it will be. We only trust that we shall not soon want relieving ourselves. A forward movement is impossible for the reason that 30,000 or 40,000 soldiers are needed, while there are only ten thousand here. The allied troops are working well together, but it is an inconvenience that there is no supreme commander. In some quarters the feeling is, 'Let us rush to Peking and then clear out in favor of Russia.' Germany is preparing to send ten or fifteen thousand more troops to China soon.

Preparing For The Worst Of News.
London, July 11.—The Shanghai cor-

CONDITIONS AT NOME.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The war department has received the following despatch from General Randall, dated June 26th, via California, the 11th: "At the request of the chamber of commerce, I have assumed direction of affairs at the town of Nome until the arrival of a judge and the formation of a municipal government as provided for by congress. At the present date, there are 16,000 people at Nome without any effective civil organization or protection of life and property." Another despatch from Major Jarvis, at Nome, dated June 29th, says: "There have been ten cases of small pox in the last three days. There was one death today."

THE NUMBER GROWS.

New York, July 11.—Twenty-four more bodies were found in the hold of the burned steamship Saale today, making sixty that have been taken from that vessel. Most of the bodies could not be identified, but some were recognized by initials or names on their persons. All appear to have been workmen on the ship.

MURDER IN SECOND DEGREE.

WOODSTOCK, Vt., July 11.—Frank, the young game poacher, who was shot from the Windsor county jail and afterward held a posse, was convicted by jury of second degree murder, killing Deputy Sheriff Shaw received the death sentence. He will be hanged.

ENGINEER DEAD.

11.—The Isthmian telegraph from Danbury, Conn., reports the death of a man.

respondent of the Daily Express gives the text of the long edict of Prince Tuan, June 29th, sent to the Chinese ambassadors, which the Express declares is identical with the proclamation of the emperor Kwang Sa, mentioned by the Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Mail, and with the Chinese edict published in Washington. The Express considers the edict as proof that Prince Tuan's party is making no attempt to disqualify the fact that the worst that could be anticipated has happened. One paragraph reads: "The anger of our people knew no bounds. It could not be restrained. Guarding the legations, before difficult, became impossible." The correspondent believes the edict is intended to pave the way for the lifting of the veil from the recent happenings at Peking.

Remey Ranks Kempf.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Admiral Remey, the commander-in-chief of all the American naval forces on the Asiatic station, having arrived in Chinese waters, now has command over Admiral Kempf, whom he ranks. It is believed that Admiral Remey's cablegram received this morning, announcing the landing of the Ninth regiment, lost its date line, for it is not doubted that the regiment landed at Taku, instead of Chee-Poo, as the despatch stated. Admiral Kempf has scored decided credit in the formal statement from the Chinese government that the bombardment of the Taku forts by the powers, which occurred over his protest and without his certification, precipitated the crisis at Peking.

SALARIES CUT DOWN.

PARIS, July 11.—Ferdinand W. Peck, United States commissioner to the Paris exposition, today decided to make a general reduction of the salaries of the employees under him. Notice was sent to all on the salary list that on the first of August their compensation would be cut down. The reduction ranges from ten to thirty per cent.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Forecast for New England: Thunder storms and local storms Thursday, generally fair Friday, fresh southwest winds becoming westerly.

IT IS NOW 168.

New York, July 11.—Up to eleven o'clock, tonight, 169 bodies of the victims of the Hoboken fire had been recovered and eight more were known to be in the Saale. These had been located but not taken out. This makes 167 bodies that have been found in ships, river and bay. One other was found off Rockaway, making 168.

BASE BALL.

The following is the result of the games played in the National league yesterday: St. Louis 0, Boston 3; at St. Louis, Pittsburgh 4, Brooklyn 0; at Pittsburgh, Cincinnati 7, Philadelphia 6; at Cincinnati.

TROUBLES OF A MINISTER.

To benefit others Rev. J. T. W. Vernon of Hartwell, Ga., writes: "For a long time I had a running sore on my leg. I tried many remedies without benefit, until I used a bottle of Electric Balm, which cured me sound and well. Sores, Eruptions, Boils, Eczema, Tetter, Salt Rheum show impure blood. Thousands have found in Electric Balm a grand blood purifier that ably cures these troubles. Satisfaction is guaranteed or money refunded by the Globe Grocery Co. Large bottles only 50 cents."

POLICE COURT.

One Drunkard to Brentwood, Another Drunkard to Portsmouth Jail.

In police court this forenoon, Richard Lynch, convicted of being drunk on State street Wednesday afternoon, was sent to the county house for ninety days, with costs to work out. He was arrested by Officer Quinn.

Charles McLaughlin, the one-legged drunkard, who a few weeks ago was given a suspended sentence for his old habit of filling up as soon as he returns from Brentwood, was committed to Portsmouth jail to serve six months and to pay costs. The sentence was suspended on condition that he remain away from the city forever, but he couldn't stay away.

HARBOR FRONT NEWS.

Sailed, July 12—Tug Piscataqua, Boston, towing barge Newcastle, P. N. Co. No. 10, P. N. No. 9, from Eliot.

Reported in harbor, July 12—Schooners Lizzie J. Clark, Machias for Boston; G. M. Walton, Rockland, do; Matthew Light, Long Cove for New York; Winslow Morse, Bangor for Bristol.

The Revenue Cutter Levi Woodbury, early Wednesday morning, picked up the schooner Benjamin T. Biggs of Exeter, abandoned and on fire, five miles southeast of Matineus rock. After extinguishing the fire, the Woodbury towed the schooner to Rockland.

In the United States district court, before Judge Aldrich, the case of William T. Donnell and others against a cargo of coal from the schooner Alice Colburn, and the Amoskeag Manufacturing company, was closed Wednesday afternoon. The libellant and claimants were ordered to file briefs.

Arrived, July 12—Tug Piscataqua, Boston, towing barge Newmarket for Eliot; United States Lighthouse steamer, Ceramium, cruising; United States Lighthouse steamer, Myrtle, do; U. S. S. Dolphin, Boston; Mary Willey, Bangor, lumber for local dealers; steamer Charles F. Mayer, Baltimore, 1680 tons of coal for J. A. and A. W. Walker; schooner Charlotte L. Morgan, Calais for Dover; George W. Lewis, South Amboy.

The accident to the schooner Jennie Greenbank, Exeter, in Boston harbor resulted very fortunately for the Exeter craft, which escaped practically unharmed, having but a few scratches to show for the collision with the tugboat Eddy. The captain of the Jennie Greenbank has been exonerated from all blame by the harbor police of Boston, who are satisfied with his statement that the schooner did not move after dropping her anchor and that the tugboat was to blame for the collision. George T. Vaughan of this city is a party owner.

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT.

The attention of parents intending to enter children in the public schools or kindergartens at the beginning of the fall term is called to section 2, chapter 93, of the Public Statutes: "No child shall attend any public school unless he has been vaccinated or has had the smallpox."

The report of the farmers in this portion of the state, who have harvested the greater part of their hay crop, is that this year's growth is the smallest one for many summers.

The republican city committee of Nashua, the party leaders of that city have decided, will not be organized until some time in August. They see no necessity of beginning the campaign work during the hot weather.

Hon. Silston Hutchins of Washington, D. C., will spend the coming summer at his residence on Governor's Island in Lake Winnepesaukee.

An automobile race between half a dozen of the leading machines manufactured is announced as an extra drawing card at the Concord state fair. Five bands will be heard during the fair.

The Boston & Maine bridge builders are at work rebuilding the bridge over Prospect street, Franklin.

For forty years Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has been during summer complaint, dysentery, diarrhoea, bloody flux, pain in the stomach, and it has never yet failed to do everything claimed for it.

The New England Magazine for August will be an Old Home Week number, and a most interesting issue is promised.

THE FIRST AT OLD ORCHARD.

The opening meet at the One Mile track, Old Orchard, will commence on Monday, July 16th, and continue through July 19th. The entries already include many of the leading horses of the section, and there is every reason to believe that the series will be one of the best of the season. Old Orchard is a splendid location for a race track, for all of its surroundings are such as to make it ideal. There are good bathing facilities, and for boating and sailing and fishing no better accommodations can be found.

For this series of races the Boston & Maine railroad has arranged to place reduced rate tickets on sale at various stations, and information regarding tickets and trains can be obtained upon inquiry at station ticket offices.

MAINE NOTES.

The republicans of Maine are to make it lively during the coming campaign.

It is reported that the Waterville race sellers propose a grand coup in making the city entirely dry, thereby to demonstrate that the citizens do not really desire pure prohibition in conformity with the spirit of the law.

John Simpson of Benton has received news of the murder of his son, Frank, who went to the Klondike in 1897.

Samuel L. Lord, ex-mayor of Saco, has been nominated by the democrats as a candidate for governor.

CONTRACTS AWARDED.

At a meeting of the county commissioners in this city on Wednesday contracts for furnishing coal for the county buildings were awarded as follows:

Four hundred tons for the county farm buildings at Brentwood to J. A. & A. W. Walker of this city.

Eighty tons for the jail and county buildings in this city to Gray & Prime.

Seventy-five tons for the jail and record building at Exeter to Mr. Anderson of Exeter.

"HUNGER IS THE BEST SAUCE"

Yet some people are never hungry. Whatever they eat has to be "forced down." There is, of course, something wrong with these people. By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla a short time they are given an appetite and then they enjoy eating and food nourishes them. If you find your appetite failing, just try a bottle of Hood's. It is a true stomach tonic and every dose does good.

The best family cathartic is Hood's Pills.

A goodly number of people from this city attended the lawn party of the Christian society in Rye on Wednesday evening.

yard at 9.45 this morning. It was the most interesting reception of public officials that has been witnessed at the navy yard for many years and no public official has made a more impressive appearance on an occasion of a visit to the yard than did Mr. Hackett. He furnished an example in his courteous manner that had not been shown by his predecessors and it was so marked as to call forth much praise.

He walked up from the gang plank, head uncovered, to where he met the officers of the yard, the line being headed by Pay Director Edward Bellows, U. S. N., and then came Commander W. T. Swinburn, U. S. N., Surgeon E. Z. Derr, U. S. N., Paymaster James E. Cunn, U. S. N., Lt. Commander R. B. Rawson, U. S. N., Naval Constructor J. G. Tawresay, U. S. N., P. A. Surgeon De Valin, U. S. N., Civil Engineer L. E. Gregory, Asst. Naval Constructor W. G. Du Bose, U. S. N., Chief Boatman W. L. Hill, U. S. N., Chief Gunner P. Lynch, U. S. N., Chief Carpenter J. B. Fletcher, U. S. N., Carpenter J. F. Simmons, U. S. N.

He was met at the landing by Rear Admiral B. J. Cromwell, U. S. N., and Aid Lieutenant J. C. Sypher, U. S. N., and Captain P. F. Harrington, U. S. N., executive officer of the yard.

A battalion of marines in command of Colonel O. C. Barrymore, U. S. M. C., headed by the naval band, R. L. Reinwald, bandmaster, was drawn up in front of the landing and as the assistant secretary passed in review they presented arms and the band gave the regulation music followed by a march, while the yard battery belched forth a salute of fifteen guns.

The assistant secretary was then escorted to the commandant's office where he inspected the various plans made for improving the yard, in company with the admiral and Naval Constructor John G. Tawresay and Civil Engineer L. E. Gregory, U. S. N.

After an hour spent in the office he made a thorough inspection of the construction plant and to say that he was thoroughly pleased with the magnitude of the yard's equipments is expressing it mildly. He took note of many suggestions and was particularly interested in the big ship building plants.

Madame Yale's HAIR TONIC

Ladies and Gentlemen—It has gone on record that Madame Yale's Excelsior Hair Tonic is the first and only remedy known to chemical science to be a genuine hair specific. It has a affinity for the human hair for nourishing and invigorating its entire structure. It is antiseptic in character, as well as stimulating; its action upon the scalp and hair is truly wonderful. Inasmuch as it has never been known in a single instance to fail to cure scalp diseases and to create a luxuriant growth of healthy, beautiful hair. It stops hair falling within twenty-four hours and brings back the natural color to gray hair in nearly every instance. It is not a dye; it is not sticky or greasy; on the contrary it makes the hair soft, youthful, beautiful and glossy; keeps it in curl; it is a perfect hair dressing, and can be used by ladies, gentlemen or children as a daily toilet requisite. Its influence is delightfully soothing.

"There is every probability that the present prevalence of erupting and easily decaying teeth is due for one cause, to the use of flour as food."

The Massachusetts State Board of Health Reports give this startling fact:—
"Of 880 school children in three towns near Boston, under twelve years of age, two thirds had decayed teeth."
